Dear _____,

How have you been? I'm so happy that I received your new address from your aunt. I honestly thought we would lose touch altogether after you moved, but I'm thrilled that we can now catch up. How is everything going in the new place? Do you enjoy the promotion you got?

Everything is fine on my part. We moved a few blocks down a month or two ago to a nicer house, and the kids are ecstatic that they now have their own rooms. We really enjoy the large backyard (and I think our dog enjoys it even more!). We're also closer to the children's school now, so carpooling is a lot easier.

I also want to let you know that our old classmates send their best regards! We met up for lunch a few days ago and I told them I would be getting back in touch with you. Half of them are married and the other half already have kids! I can't believe how time flies. It seems like just yesterday we were in freshman year, and now look at us, all grown up.

I truly hope everything is going well for you and I'm so glad that we can chat again. Whenever you come back in town for a visit, make sure you drop a line or call! In the meantime, I look forward to hearing from you.

Lots of love,
